EXPERIENCE

Craig Stouffer began his servant-based career when he started working in the world of public safety during high school. During his college years, he furthered this giving spirit as a paramedic. As a Compliance One Group project specialist in the Testing, Inspection & Maintenance market segments of the code compliance firm, Craig also brings a unique expertise in digital and technical engineering as it relates to public safety, crimes and surveillance trends that affect both the private and government sectors.

It is this unique mix of public safety, computer/digital design and implementation and safety and medical training that Craig contributes to Compliance One Group's inclusive efforts, as he and the team focus on the needs of the physical environment as it relates to the safety and security of employees, patients, students and systems in the healthcare, school, university and multiple use construction facilities. With his extensive background in the fields of criminal justice, fire compliance and life safety, Craig can effectively apply his past to real experiences to benefit the Compliance One Group's national clientele in the doors and dampers inspection/maintenance arena.

As a public safety officer at several municipalities for the past three decades, Craig has been with the Kalamazoo Department of Public Safety as safety patrol officer since 1994 and has been the recipient of multiple awards and commendations as he served without reservation. His awards for the Department of Public Safety City of Kalamazoo include: two Chief's Awards of Excellence; three Professional Excellence Awards; an Award of Merit and two Life-Saving Awards. Craig has also received numerous written commendations and letters of appreciation from outside agencies, including the Drug Force Agency and the United States Attorney's Office.

In addition to Craig's multiple emergency medical training program certifications, he is a certified National Fire Protection Association Fire Inspector I; Fire Plan Examiner; Fire Inspector II and Certified Fire Protection Specialist. With a rich background in the fields of criminal justice, fire compliance and life safety, Craig can efficiently apply his training and career experiences to benefit the Compliance One Group's clients.
